Seek terrorism Rx

Washington (AP)—Secretary of State Shultz called in a panel of 23 experts and government officials yesterday for a private briefing on a topic that has plagued the recent conduct of U.S. diplomacy: international terrorism.

Brian Jenkins, director of security for the Rand Corp. of Los Angeles, served as moderator. Invited panelists included Robert Sayre, director of the State Department's office for combating terrorism; Robert Gates, deputy director of the CIA; Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger; FBI Director William Webster, and Deputy Secretary of State Kenneth Dam.
